

Please do not diminish the privacy we now enjoy (in Indiana) from unwanted telemarketer's who take great pride in calling at meal times and other inconvenient times. It is a blessing in disguise not to run to the ringing of the phone only to get there to an empty sound. It is extremely difficult for the elderly who have stiff joints to get up and down for nothing. If you have to tinker with the system USE Indiana's as the base without diluting this effective peace of mind. I would trade it for anything.....
